EDITORIAL

It is now Spring, But ere the cycle's done, We shall in autumn reap The peace of mind that comes with storehouse full, The fruits of toil and effort. So in winter we may have When one's aware that it's too late to plant. We shall toss some fruit to man To serve as inspiration for the brave, And we shall leave some seeds upon the earth, Who would accept the challenge; To take root and blossom in their Spring. And when our roots are withered and decayed, And we lay silent beneath the snows of time, Let's pray that though we sleep inside the earth. Our achievements have attained immortal worth.

We all had the opportunity to vote for Student Council President . . . Confederate flags adorned student vehicles . . . some of us even went to the Senior Prom! . . . "Too Young" was on everyone's lips . . . Summer was upon us and school was dismissed.

Junior Year! We were no longer on the outside looking in, nor were we merely scapegoats, shunned by upperclassmen. We were upperclassmen, and with the addition of freshmen to the school once again, our position was even heightened . . . Physics and chem hit us like an H-bomb. Everyone was a "Zombie" . . . Forty-five minute lunch periods returned and pupils began to gain weight! . . . We met "Muzzey", who we discovered was to haunt us for the rest of our days as BHS . . . Who'll ever forget "Mr. Bruder's history class"? (Didn't we give him a hard time!) or Miss Walston's original compositions: "Yellow", Something Small", etc. . . . We began to participate more and more in assembly programs . . . We watched Barringer beat E. O. 25-27 Thanksgiving Day, breaking the tie between the rival schools . . . The dramatics class organized, and under the direction of that unforgettable personality Miss Clara Mae Gray, put on "A Wedding", with Anne Rossilli and Barbara Sheppard, both juniors . . . We had a lovely Christmas assembly, with carols and Bible excerpts, climaxing in a brilliant Halleujah Chorus . . . The new year found Laura Kammel half smothered under layers of face putty in dramatics, all of us having fun with Mr. Kaplonski (remember when he misplaced the history test!) and rehearsals well under way for the "Double Door"... Zelda was beyond surprise when her friends staged a birthday party in the cafeteria complete with cake and trimmings . . . Club names adorned varsity jackets . . . Wasn't home nursing a riot! . . . Barringer had an extremely successful Career Day . . . "Double Door" had a three night run . . . We were measured for our rings . . . With all juniors running for Student Council President: five girls and two boys, Barringer bowed to its first lady president, Edith Travisano, a junior B. Joan Gerhauser became treasurer and Carol Pompilio, recording-secretary . . . There were cheers and tears when the results of cheerleading tryouts were posted, but our class was proud of its final representation on the squad . . . We elected our yearbook staff . . . Joan Gerhauser was chosen as representative to Girls' State . . . How we struggled through exams: French conjugation, "infinite decreasing geometric progression", the "Rising of the New West", "Beowulf", and then, at last, we were . . .

History

Seniors! The yearbook staff was restless at first, but after much discussion on style of personals and a suitable theme, we finally settled down to work . . . Vecchione, Corrigan, and Eng became our class leaders . . . Barbara Sheppard, Betty Ann Senerschia, and Helen Eng became Acropolis editors . . . Stanley Mueller ordered a '52 ring! . . . Remember the very touching Columbus Day program? . . . If we hadn't bought Barringer sweatshirts in sophomore year we got them as seniors, and wore them to all the football games . . . Did we protest when it was announced that periods would no longer be omitted for assembly progams! . . . All the girls sported sweaters and white collars . . . We were overjoyed when President Truman came to Newark (with a note from home we were excused from school). All we ever saw was the backs of heads . . . Our 4B dance, the "Goblin's Hobble", was a huge success! . . . Eisenhower won the presidential election in spite of the BHS straw vote favoring Stevenson . . . All sorts of political puns were circulated . . . Some of us were (un) fortunate enough to be in Mr. Ammarell's infamous fourth period class. What a crazy combo of characters! . . . Creative Writing was a new experience in expression, and we enjoyed experimenting with cinquains and hokkus . . . We were generally found around Mrs. Burley's office, and not always for disciplinary reasons. (We had by this time learned the art of escaping detection.) We applied everywhere from UCLA to Newark State. Thirteen of us were elected to National Honor . . . Barry King was our handsome drum major . . . Helen, Vi, Max, and Erma cheered, as Nickie Saulle, Joe Pasqua, and Patsy Forte led our team on to victory Thanksgiving Day. Man, did we show E. O! . . . Before we knew it we all had part time jobs and the Christmas rush was upon us . . . Loretta Malanga was seen knitting argyles in study hall . . . Miss Farquhar's homeroom put up a tree and took it down the same morning! . . . The girls wore tinsel, holly, tree ornaments and mistletoe in their hair . . . School was dismissed for ten days. It wasn't a white Christmas but it was a merry one. We had to go to Rockefeller Center to skate. "Ah, Wilderness!" heck, Omar Khayyam has never seen New York! . . . Some of us had extended vacations, spent with virus influenza . . . Yearbook pictures were taken and everyone was unhappy with his proofs . . . We were victorious in the 4B-4A game . . . We watched award assembly with keener interest, and took our seats as senior A's . . .

With the beginning of the 4A term we were wrapped up in social and financial obligations, hounded by yearbook agents and homeroom treasurers . . . Mr. Merkin introduced us to a new approach to history—and we liked it! Dr. Sterner loaded us down with vocabulary, and Joe Brasco became "lugubrious" in Miss Gray's class . . . Homerooms 35 and 61 vied for the distinction of being the most unmanageable. When 35 was banned from assembly each member (including Miss Farquhar) bore his disgrace in the form of a badge with the numerals 35 . . . We won the 4B-4A game again! . . . Carol Pompilio was chosen for the DAR award . . . The announcement of top ten was awaited with great anxiety . . . National Honor initiations for nine 4As were held . . . the prom, business, and graduation committees got to work . . . Carol Pompilio captured yearbook editorship, Barbara Sheppard became assistant . . . Mary Anne Durante, Jerry Pacillo, Joe Bruzzio and Donald Barer entertained us in "Arsenic and Old Lace" . . . Popularity Polls were distributed . . . May was filled with the Spring Concert, the track meet, and the "Spring Swing", our 4A dance . . . June 5 was the Student Council square dance . . . June 12 was award assembly, and class day . . . and then . . . June 17, 1953

"Absent thee from felicity awhile and in this harsh world—do your vocabulary!"

"Tackle this side of the problem first."

"A Wedding"

"A Wedding", a one act comedy featuring Barbara Sheppard, Anne Rossilli and Annette Salerno, was the first production of the Barringer Little Theatre and marked the revival of the dramatics tradition in Barringer. Soon afterwards Anne and Barbara graduated to a three act play with "Double Door", a psychological drama. Finally the dramatics class tried its hand at a three act comedy, and the senior class applauded Mary Ann Durante, Jerry Pacillo, Joe Bruzzio and Donald Barer in "Arsenic and Old Lace".

All three plays were produced and directed by Miss Clara Mae Gray.

Mr. Anthony Naporano Coach

Despite the discouraging outlook for the season because of inexperienced players and vital injuries, the team achieved unexpected success with its performances in crucial games. The scores were always close and the victories were against the best opposition, climaxed by the resounding upset of East Orange in the "Turkey Day" tilt, by the score of 7-0.

An All City guard in all respects. Joey was a tower of strength on the big Blue line. Joe Pasqua

Nick Saulle Our triple threat back easily made the All City team.

Joe Brasco

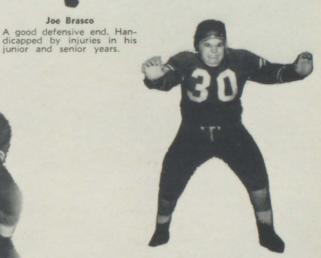

Joe Bruzzio How true the adage "Good things come in small packages."

Tony Maiella Tony earned his varsity letter in his junior year. Was un-able to play in his last year.

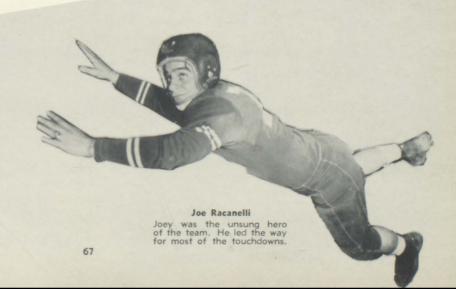

Pat Forte Pat was the spark plug of the team, always keeping the team's spirit high.

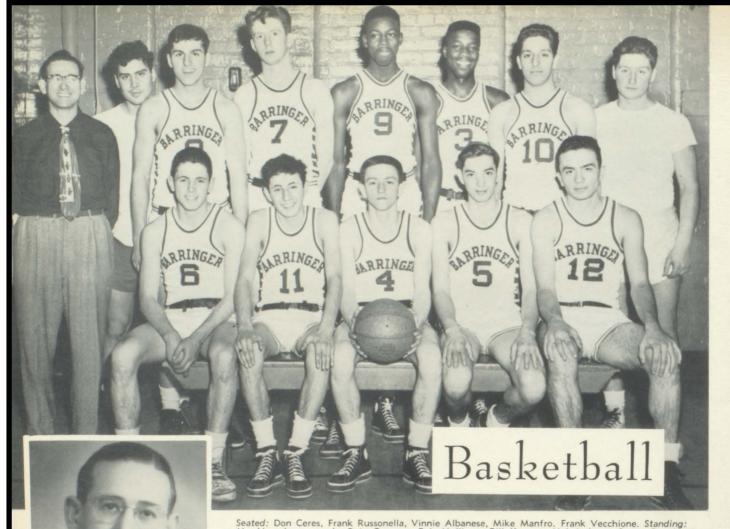

Jerry Pacillo The man behind the front line, steady, dependable, strong in the clutch.

Sal DeVito The brains behind the team. Sally completely bewildered the bigger boys.

Seated: Don Ceres, Frank Russonella, Vinnie Albanese, Mike Manfro. Frank Vecchione. Standing: Mr. Nerenberg, coach; Pete Comune, Bob Mulligan, Bill Keegan, Mal Jackson, Sesser Peoples, Richie Vantuno, Larry Peccatiello.

Playing against competition such as Essex County has to offer, any team which can compile a record of better than .500 is really playing good ball. Barringer's overall record of 11 won and 6 lost against some of the County's roughest adversaries was significant of the team's capabilities despite its apparent lack of experience. Victories over Kearny, West Side, and a powerful Bloomfield aggregate highlighted one of the most successful seasons a Barringer basketball team has achieved in recent years.

Joseph Nerenberg

Coach

Bob Mulligan

A rough, cagy customer un-der the board. Bob proved himself in all departments.

Mal Jackson

Our leading scorer and top rebounder in the city league. Mal was picked for the All City Team.

Frank Vecchione

One of the fastest boys on the court. Frank's defensive play slowed many of the high scorer to a trickle.

A good guard with a deadly set shot. Don's hustle kept the morale high.

Bill Keegan

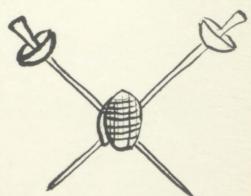

A good rebounder with a fine one-handed push shot. Bill always was in there fighting.

The brave men before the battle.

Fencing

Sal Gengaro and Don Barer were Barringer's co-captains of this year's Fencing Team. Barringer reached the semi-finals of the National Interscholastic Fencing Tournament at New York University. Sal made the starting team in his junior year, Don, in his senior year. They were the mainstays of the team throughout the season.

Bowling

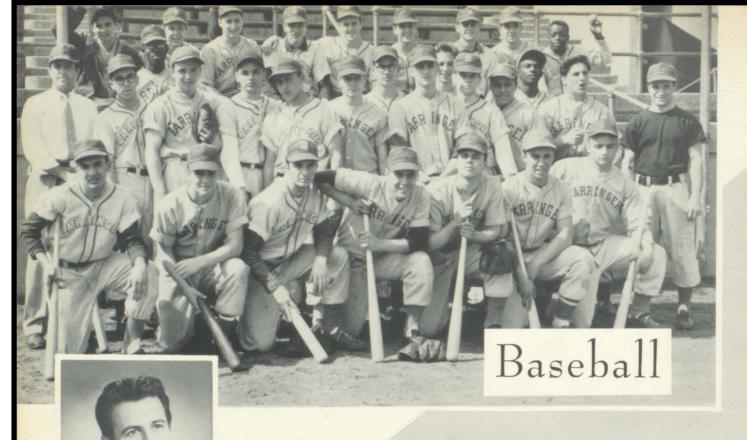

The season was moderately successful as Barringer finished third in the City League composed of all the high schools. Our high spot of the season was our victory over South Side Five who eventually won the City Championship. The mainstays of the team were the 4A's: Fred Trent, Jerry Pacillo, Nick Saulle, and Al Forte.

Track and Field

The track team had a good season due to: Nick Saulle, a field man with a strong right arm to throw the javelin; Joe Bruzzio, pole vaulter and 100 and 220 yard dash runner; Pat Forte, who consistently heaved the shot put 40 feet or over; Joe Pasqua, Junior City Champ in the pole vault in 1950, who regularly cleared 11 feet; Dick Vinci, who cleared over eleven feet in the pole vault and was our crack hurdler; Cassie Miller, whose specialties were the shot put and discus, and Ernie Monoco, a consistent miler who always managed to place.

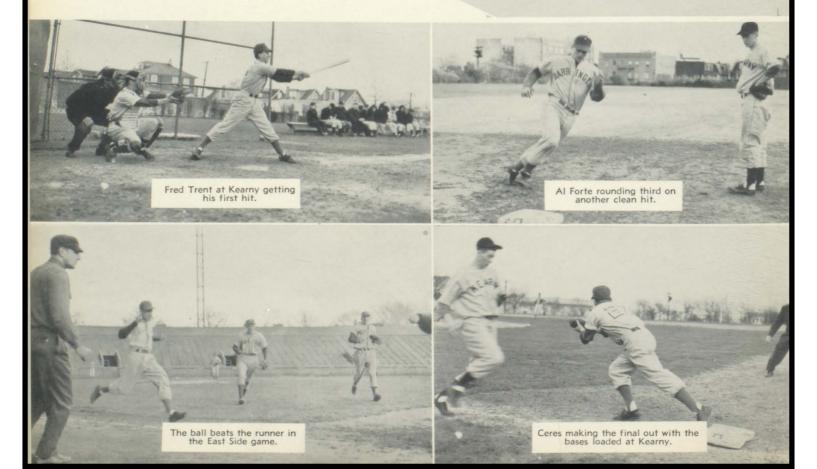

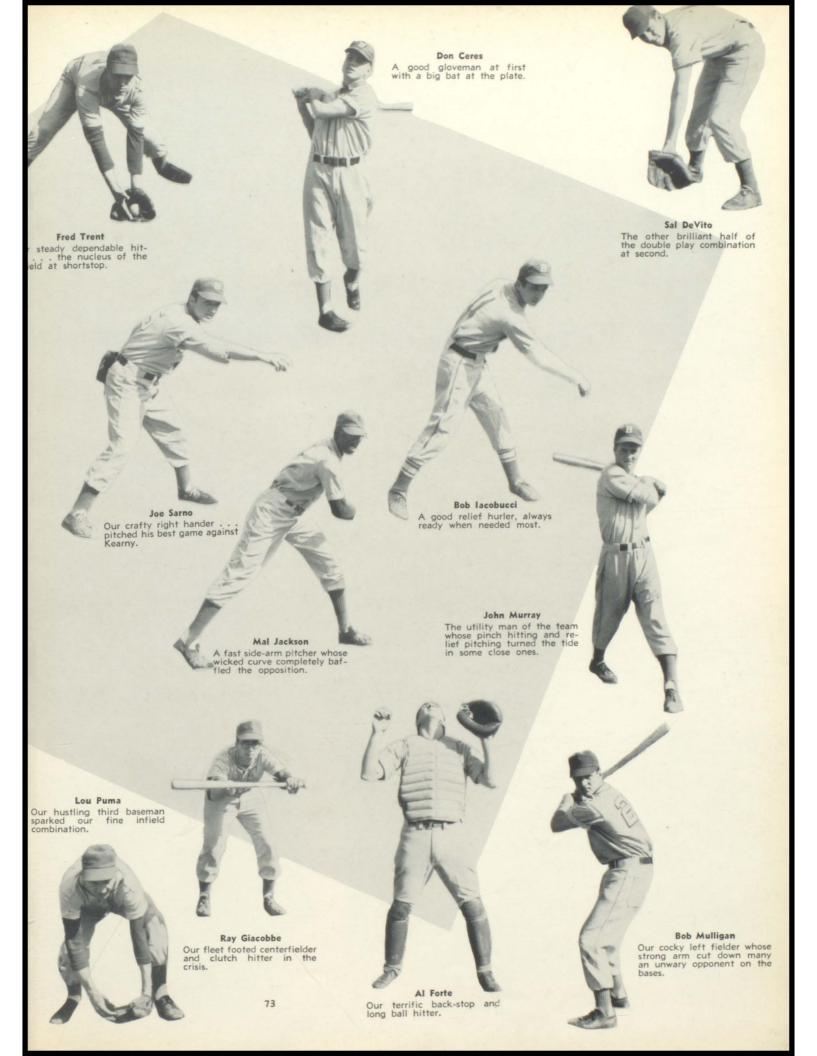

Mr. C. Di Chiara Coach Barringer had an erratic but interesting season in baseball, winning the Kearny and West Side games like champs and dropping the East Side and South Side encounters when players had off days. Especially memorable was the West Side battle when in the last inning with two out, none on base, and a one-hitter staring the team in the face, three hits scored two runs and victory.

An unusual number of 4A's bolstered the team's lineup: Joe Sarno, Don Ceres. Fred Trent, Lou Puma, Ray Giacobbe and Al Forte.

Mr. Di Chiara, our new coach, overcame many problems including practice difficulties.

To qualify for B girl, 1,200 points must be earned both in sports and related gym-activities. These include softball, basketball, hockey, and swimming (25 points for participation, 50 for outstanding ability). The other activities considered are social dancing, gym rating A, Posture A, captain, student teacher, suit cleanliness, and attendance record.

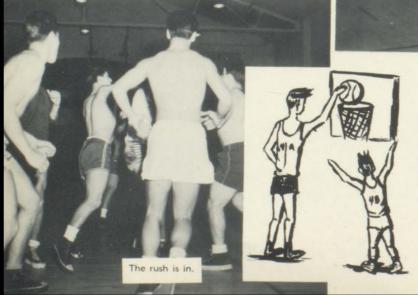

Flying high.

Man with wings. 4B-4A Game

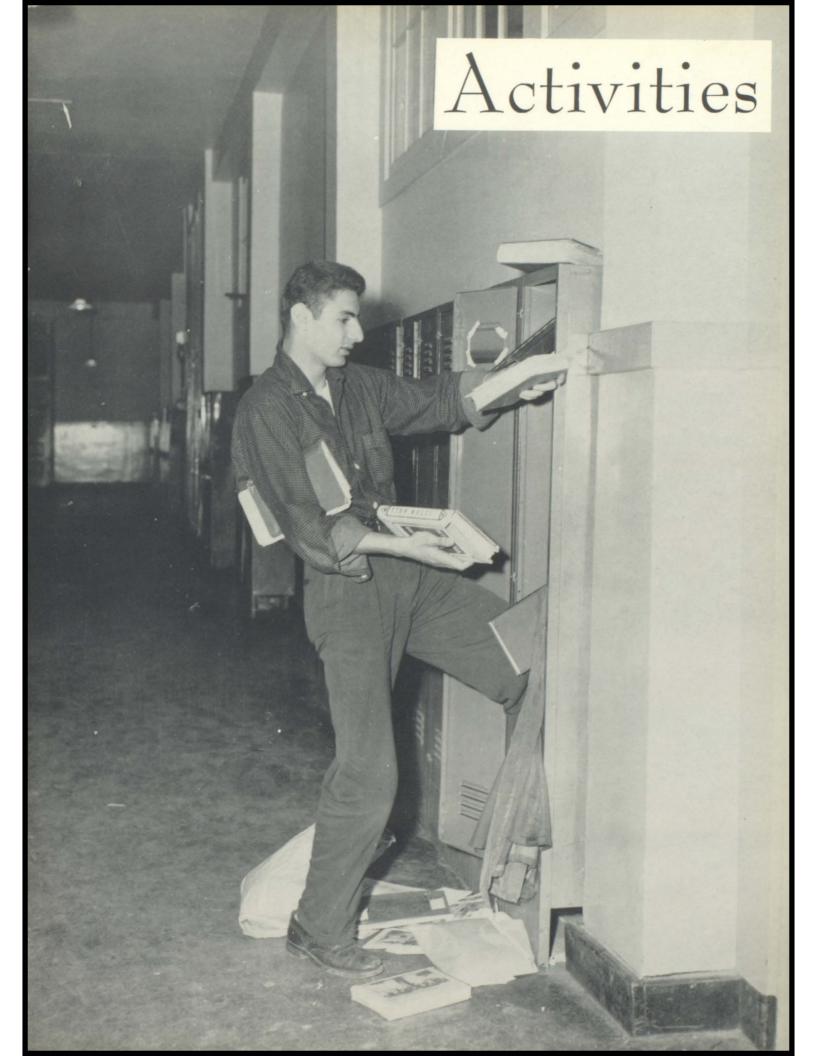

A constant source of pleasure and sportsman-ship has been the traditional 4B-4A basketball tussle. Here the seniors try to impress upon the rebellious 4B's, their superiority in athletic skills, in good sportsmanship, and in winning a major share of the gate receipts. Cheers, tears, cries, sighs, threats, bets rise and fall to end in friendly handclasps and best wishes for the future.

Final score: 4A's 47 - 4B's 28.
